WEEKLY ACTIVITIES AND STATUS REPORT FOR THE DD/ICS--5 June 1985

CIPC Organizational Activities

- The Mobile Missile Panel continues to meet almost daily in an effort to produce an agreed-upon final draft report.
 - We have advised Ed and Jim to use COB today as the cutoff for any more changes to the report. Any subsequent changes can be surfaced and tabled by the CIPC Members on 17 June.
 - In order to provide the members sufficient time to review the Mobile Missile Study before the CIPC Meeting, we are making a concerted effort to have a draft report for your review by COB Wednesday or early Thursday. The secretaries will be working late this evening (Tuesday, 4 June) to incorporate any changes that surface from today's MMP Meeting, and the staff officers are assisting Jim and Ed where needed.
 - I am optimistic that we can get the report to the members this week.
- Drafting also continues on the Follow-up Narcotics Report. This effort should be completed by the end of the week for review by the working group, pending receipt of the NSA input, which has been completed, but is held up in NSA's internal review mechanism.
- We are gearing up to initiate our Follow-up Report on Soviet Ballistic Missiles. have been instructed to start pulling appropriate data together, schedule briefings as required, develop a TOR bounding the scope of the follow-up report, etc.
 - As a result of the BMD Study, COMIREX has revalidated its BMD collection and exploitation Problem Set. We are scheduled to receive a briefing on the new collection and exploitation requirements within the next few days.

_	Moreover, we are applying gentle, but persistent, pressure on the Perry
	Panel to provide us their report. We plan to use any appropriate information/recommendations contained in their study in our follow-up report.

 Our target date for completing the BMD Follow-up Report is 60 days after formal implementation of the study effort.

	atter formal implementation of the study errort.
25 X 1	Narcotics Intelligence:
	 Paul has been devoting time to reviewing intelligence reporting related to narcotics of the last several years. The results, if worthwhile, will be used in the Follow-up Narcotics Study.
25 X 1	• Last week Paul visited with personnel from LTG Tice's office in the Pentagon. General Tice is heading the effort in OSD to coordinate a request from law enforcement officials for DoD support. During the visit, Paul learned that a DoD-wide working group is being formed to review DoD's role in combating narcotics. DoD intelligence will be represented by C ³ I, rather than DIA.

057/4	George introduced Paul to members of the DEA Office of Intelligence on 22
25X1 25X1	As you may recall, OIA has had a liaison officer assigned to the DEA since the fall of 1983. It is an effective liaison relationship that has significantly contributed to an increased understanding by the CIA of DEA needs and the ability of the OIA to support those needs.
	 On 23 May, George and Paul attended the NIO Warning Meeting for Narcotics at CIA Headquarters. The following were among the major points discussed at the meeting:

TOP SECRET

- The head of the Department of Justice's (DOJ) Forfeiture and Seizure Division briefed on new legislation which the DOJ will propose making money-laundering a criminal offense and subject to forfeiture of assets both in the US as well as overseas. (It seems reasonably clear that if this proposal is enacted into legislation by the Congress, there is bound to be increased demands for foreign intelligence on financial flows of narcotics monies.)
- The US Coast Guard notes that narcotics-related maritime activity in the Caribbean has been at a low ebb over the past several weeks. There may be a correlation between the reduction in maritime trafficking and the current Colombian effort at spray eradication of the northeastern marijuana fields. Jamaica is also engaged in an eradication program which is having some success. No one at the table, however, felt that the evidence was sufficient to warrant such a conclusion at this time.

Sov	iet Ballistic Missile Defense:
•	On 31 May, Rich attended a meeting with in ICS/PBS to review intended presentation to the NSC on Ballistic Missile Defense. The audience (OSWR) were joined by from (ACIS)) was well satisfied with the text. The background information that was provided to helpful and shifted the emphasis away from the focus a broader portrayal of the Community's accomplishments growing out of the CIPC study.
	The IICT Subcommittee on Intelligence Requirements which chairs
•	has finalized its report. Its major conclusions are:
	 The intelligence requirements process is basically sound. It provides counterterrorism specialists the tools necessary to articulate their information needs, be they time sensitive or enduring in nature. The major Community documents which list standing information requirements are current, well articulated, and assign high priorities to counterterrorism.
	- As for ad hoc information requirements, many specialiststoo many by the subcommittee's reckoningprefer to use informal networks rather than documenting their requirements.

•	The report offers 12 recommendations, 11 of which can be categorized as communications, ADP or training, and are feasible within current or programmed funds. The 12th is a recommendation that all requests for additional personnel or fundingDoD saw the need for more of bothbe reviewed by the IICT in the context of a DCI-approved set of counterterrorism objectives and priorities (as recommended by the CIPC ctudy). The IICT should then offer its advice to appropriate resource study). The IICT should then offer its advice to appropriate resource managers.

	counterterrorism objectives and priorities (as recommended by the CIPC study). The IICT should then offer its advice to appropriate resource managers.
•	The subcommittee report was to have been considered by the IICT on 13 June. Due to scheduling conflicts, that has been delayed to July.
•	The fourth session of the IR&DC Panel on Counterterrorism is scheduled to meet Wednesday, 5 June. The FBI will host this session.
